

The Fairbanks Children's Museum is following guidelines from the WHO, the CDC, and the State of Alaska to ensure health and safety.

- Per State mandates, camp groups may include up to 20 children. Our camp groups will include no more than 12 children and no more than 4 museum staff members at the museum any given week.
- Social distancing will be encouraged but with the understanding that enforcing social distancing in young children has its limitations.
- There will be no additional visitors, parents, or volunteers permitted at the museum.
- All staff will wear masks.
- Adults will wear masks when dropping off and picking up their children from the museum. Upon entering the museum, they will use provided hand sanitizer. They will remain in the gift shop/front desk area of the museum while a staff member collects their child and their belongings.
- Sufficient supplies will be provided so that campers do not have to share high-touch materials (such as glue sticks and scissors), but with the understanding that enforcing this rule in young children has its limitations.
- Any attendees coming from out of state or that have recently traveled must quarantine for 14 days before attending camp.
- Frequently touched surfaces will be disinfected regularly throughout the day and the full museum will be disinfected thoroughly at the end of each day.
- Hand sanitizer will be available to and required of every person upon entering and exiting the museum and handwashing will occur frequently over the course of the day for staff members and campers.
- All children and staff will be screened for fever upon arrival at camp each day using a touchless thermometer. Temperatures will be recorded on the sign-in sheets.
- The museum will not provide any food for consumption so children must bring lunch, snacks, and a water bottle with them each day. While the water fountain will be closed, staff will be able to refill children's water bottles using the kitchen sink if/when needed.
- Campers will be given designated areas to safely social distance while eating.
- No staff displaying symptoms of COVID-19 will be permitted to work at the museum and no staff will report to the museum within 72 hours of exhibiting a fever.
- If a camper or staff member tests positive for COVID-19, camp will shut down for a period of at least 72 hours for full disinfection of the museum following all CDC protocols.

For questions, please contact meredith@fairbankschildrensmuseum.com